

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Georgian, is visible on both pages of the manuscript. The text is arranged in columns and includes several large, ornate initial letters in red and blue ink. The script is written on aged, yellowed parchment. The right page shows significant damage, including a large tear and missing sections of the parchment.

